

About Bradwell Silver Band.....

Bradwell Silver Band was founded on 15th January 1901 and can proudly claim that it has been in continuous existence until the present day.

Most of the original members lived in what was then rural North Buckinghamshire villages of Bradwell and Stantonbury and were employed at the London and North Western Railway Works in neighbouring Wolverton. These areas were later renamed Old Bradwell and New Bradwell respectively and although both areas retain their identities, they are now very much a part of the ever expanding Milton Keynes.

Bradwell Silver Band is a self-supporting organisation whose activities are financed with the support of the local community and fees from a wide variety of engagements. A strong emphasis is given to our Development Band, offering free tuition and instruments to all ages.
